

孔子传

孔子传_下载链接1

著者:曲春礼

出版者:外文出版社

出版时间:1997-01-01

装帧:精装

isbn:9787119018638

作者介绍:

About the Author

Born in Longkou of Shandong on June 1, 1937, Qu Chunli graduated from the Department of Chinese Literature of Shandong University in 1965. He once served as chairman of the Jining City People's Association for Friendship with Foreign Countries. He is now concurrently director of the Shandong

International Cultural Exchange Center and guest professor of Shandong
University and Qingdao University.
Since 1986 he has published Folk
Customs in the Homeland of Confucius and Mencius, Tales of Poetic Couplets and Inscribed Boards in the Confucius
Residence, The Life of Confucius, The Life of Mencius and The Life of Kong
Shangren. He is working on another historical novel.

目录: Chapter One

Shuliang He Distinguishes Himself in the Battlefield;
Yan Zhengzai Gives Birth to a Long-expected Son

Chapter Two

The Stepmother Brings Up Her Son;
The Grandfather Teaches His Grandson

Chapter Three

Confucius Is Turned Away by a Powerful Man;
He Displays His Talents to the Lord in a Discourse on State
Affairs

Chapter Four

Confucius Becomes Keeper of Granaries and Visits the Peasants;

Reappointed to Keeper of Livestock, He Punishes a Crooked Subordinate

Chapter Five

Confucius Has His Mother Buried by His Father's Side;
He Travels a Long Distance to Study Music After a Famous Master

Chapter Six

Confucius Starts to Take on Disciples;
Duke Jing of Qi Seeks to Enlist Real Talents into His Service

Chapter Seven

Confucius Visits Lao Zi in the Royal Capital;
He Studies Music from Chang Hong While Staying with Lao Zi

Chapter Eight

Helped by Virtuous Ministers, Duke Zhao of Lu Escapes from the Jaws of Death;

Receiving Timely Reinforcements Jisun Yiru Turns Defeat into Victory

Chapter Nine

Gao Zhaozi Treats a Man of Inferior Rank with Respect;

Yan Ymg Is Jealous of Confucius for His Talent

Chapter Ten

Listening to Shao Music, Confucius Forgets the Taste of Meat;

Nangong Shi Comprehends His Master's Message by Reciting a Poem

Chapter Eleven

Confucius and His Disciples Climb Mount Tai to Broaden Their Vision;

Tracing the Source of the Sishui River They Compare the Past with the Present

Chapter Twelve

Jisun Yiru Exhorts His Son for the Sake of the Family;

Confucius Explains the Meaning of the Slanting Vessel to His Disciples in the Temple

Chapter Thirteen

Two Cousins Set a Trap by Giving a Banquet at Pu Garden;

The Lu Sovereign Sends an Expedition Against the City of Huan

Chapter Fourteen

Yang Hu Has a Narrow Escape from Lu to Qi;

Duke Jing of Qi Fails to Satisfy the Demand of Duke Ding of Lu

Chapter Fifteen

Confucius Governs Zhongdu Well by Punishing Profiteers and Eliminating Outdated Customs;

The People Build Water Conservancy Projects and Subsequently Enjoy a Bumper Harvest

Chapter Sixteen

Confucius Becomes Minister of Justice and Resolves a Dispute Between Father and Son;

He Recommends Two Disciples to Be Stewards at the Chief Minister's House

Chapter Seventeen

Li Chu Seeks a Chance to Humiliate the Lord of Lu;

Confucius Trains the Army in Case of Emergency

Chapter Eighteen

Lu Gains a Diplomatic Victory at the Jiagu Meeting;

The Entire State of Qi Mourns Yan Ying's Death

Chapter Nineteen

On Shimen Mountain the Disciples Express Their Aspirations;

Among Apricot Trees the Master Sings to the Accompaniment of the Zither

Chapter Twenty

The Lu Army Gains a Victory by Luring the Enemy Away from His Base;

Fighting Against Overwhelming Odds the Rebel Troops Suffer a Crushing Defeat

Chapter Twenty-one

Confucius Advises the Duke of Lu to Restore the Rites of Zhou;

Qi Uses Beautiful Maidens to Disrupt the Lu Court
Chapter Twenty-two
Wallowing in Pleasure, Duke Ding of Lu Neglects State Affairs;
Disappointed with the Fatuous Sovereign Confucius Leaves His Homeland
Chapter Twenty-three
Confucius and His Disciples Arrive in the State of Wei;
The Duke of Wei and His Consort Have an Argument in the Garden
Chapter Twenty-four
The Wanton Consort Has an Affair with a Courtier;
A Brave General of Wei Subdues a Rebellion
Chapter Twenty-five
Confucius Is Kept Under Surveillance in Wei;
He and His Disciples Are Surrounded at Kuang
Chapter Twenty-six
Confucius and His Disciples Return to Wei;
Lady Nan Zi Meets with Confucius
Chapter Twenty-seven
Confucius Accompanies the Duke of Wei on an Excursion;
The Duke's Son Attempts to Assassinate His Mother
Chapter Twenty-eight
Master and Disciples Discuss State Affairs by the Yellow River;
Courders of Jin Compete for Control of Its Army
Chapter Twenty-nine
Father and Son Fight for the Dukedom of Wei;
Confucius and His Disciples Encounter Some Bandits
Chapter Thirty
Zi Gong Calls on a Village Woman to Learn a Secret Method;
Confucius Tells Duke Min of Chen the Origin of a Strange Arrow
Chapter Thirty-one
Confucius Describes the Attributes of a Benevolent Man;
On his Deathbed Jisun Si Thinks of Confucius
Chapter Thirty-two
Duke Min of Chen Hunts Auspicious Animals Despite Confucius' Objection;
A Wu General Is Persuaded by Confucius to Withdraw His Invading Troops
Chapter Thirty-three
Confucius and His Disciples Starve at the Chen-Cai Boundary;
The Magistrate of She Is Impressed by Confucius' Teaching
Chapter Thirty-four
Gao Chai Redresses a Wrong;
Confucius Explains the Importance of Rectifying Names
Chapter Thirty-five
Zi Gong Defeats Bo Pi in a Verbal Battle;
Confucius Praises Zi Lu for Being a Good Official
Chapter Thirty-six
Confucius Misses His Sick Wife Back in Lu;
You Ruo Leads the Lu Army to Defeat Invaders from Wu
Chapter Thirty-seven

Zi Gong Successfully Reclaims the Lost Land for Lu;
Lady Qiguan Longs in Vain for Her Husband's Return
Chapter Thirty-eight
You Ruo Defeats the Qi Army by Strategy;
Zi Gong Uses His Eloquence to Convince the Prince of Wu

Chapter Thirty-nine
Bao Mu's Army Is Routed by the Joint Forces of Lu and
Wu;
Confucius Returns to His Hometown to Meet with Duke Ai
of Lu

Chapter Forty
Confucius and His Disciples Discuss Their Political Ideals;
Min Shun Declines to Take Office to Preserve His Purity
Chapter Forty-one
Zi Gong Is Advised to Accept His Appointment to Magistrate of Wen Yang;
Confucius Dreams of King Jing of Zhou

Chapter Forty-two
Confucius Talks About Filial Duties;
Master and Disciples Plant Junipers in the Courtyard
Chapter Forty-three

Yan Yan Is Highly Praised for High Performance in Office;
Confucius Loses His Son and His Favorite Disciple

Chapter Forty-four
Gao Chai Tries Cases Justly;
Kong Zhong Places Trivialities over Essentials

Chapter Forty-five
Confucius Finds His Favorite Disciple in Poor Health;
Gao Chai Deals with a Difficult Case Involving the Duke's
Consort

Chapter Forty-six
Mi Buqi Reports to Confucius His Achievements in Office;
Yan Hui Dies of Illness in the Prime of Life

Chapter Forty-seven
Confucius Despairs of Realizing His Ideal on Seeing an Auspicious Animal Shot Dead in Lu;
Kuai Kui Celebrates the Success of His Southern Expedition with Jubilation

Chapter Forty-eight
Zi Lu Dies a Cruel Death in the State of Wei;
On His Deathbed Confucius Finds a Successor for Himself

Chapter Forty-nine
Yan Hui Ranks First Among Confucian Disciples in Virtue;
Zi Gong Stays by Confucius' Grave in Mourning for Six Years

Chapter Fifty
Confucius Receives Various Titles from Subsequent Kings and Emperors;
The Confucian Descendants Enjoy Honor and Position in Successive Dynasties

AFTERWORD

• • • • • (收起)

孔子传 下载链接1

标签

评论

孔子传 下载链接1

书评

孔子传 下载链接1