本来今天心情很糟，突然看到这些可爱俏皮的小鸡，不禁就笑了，可能在别人眼里幼稚得很吧，一群小鸡的生活，反正好我的好~~
