HERBERT GEORGE WELLS was born on September 21, ~866, in Bromley, England, the fourth son of Joseph Wells, a shopkeeper and professional cricketer, and his wife, Sarah Neal, a housekeeper at a nearby estate. Wells s early life was shaped by two accidents. When Wells broke his leg at the age of eight, he discovered the joys of reading during his recovery. When his father also broke his leg, he could no longer play cricket professionally, and the family finances suffered. Wells and his brothers took apprenticeships with a local draper.

In 1883, Wells was fired from his apprenticeship. Not displeased about the change, he became a teacher and pupil at Midhurst Grammar School and eventually won a scholarship to the Normal School of Science in London. There he studied under T. H. Huxley, excelling in biology and physics, but failing geology. He left the school in 1887.

At loose ends, Wells lived for a while with his aunt, where he began a relationship with his cousin Isabel, whom he married in 1891. He taught for several years and earned his Bachelor of Science degree in 1890. His marriage to Isabel did not last long, and in 1895 he married one of his correspondence school students, Amy Catherine, with whom he had two sons. Linked with several other women in his later life, Wells also fathered children outside of marriage.

评论

一场悲观的时间旅行。

7/10 故事情节一般刺激 发展也大多在意料之中 不过考虑到创作的年代
此书作为时间旅行科幻鼻祖 确实很有意义了

书评

被翻译成无数种文字，被收益于无数部电影、电视、小说、漫画等等。这部小说在被广为流传的同时，恐怕很多人忽略了它最真实的剖析社会结构的意义了吧?!

老式科幻的必读之物。此书在国外流行的“世界科幻100强”中，排名16。另一本《世界之战》排名20。还能有两本入选，且排名如此靠前，真不简单。
相较威尔斯，我更喜欢的凡尔纳就不那么幸运了。他也有两本入选：《地心游记》、《海底两万里》，可惜排名都在50位左右。能和阿西...
