For many centuries Prague has exerted a particular fascination because of its beauty and the richness of its culture and history. Its famous group of German and Czech writers of mostly Jewish in the earlier part of this century has deeply influenced Western culture. However, little attention has so far been paid to the roles of women in the history of this ethnically diverse area in and around Prague. Based on largely autobiographical writings and letters by women and enhanced by an extensive historical introduction, this book redresses a serious imbalance. The vivid and often moving portraits, which emerge from a varied material used by the author, offer fascinating and new insights into the social and cultural history of this region.
