In the final years of his life, Chekhov had reached the height of his powers as a dramatist, and also produced some of the stories that rank among his masterpieces. The poignant 'The Lady with the Little Dog' and 'About Love' examine the nature of love outside of marriage - its romantic idealism and the fear of disillusionment. And in stories such as 'Peasants', 'The House with the Mezzanine' and 'My Life' Chekhov paints a vivid picture of the conditions of the poor and of their powerlessness in the face of exploitation and hardship. With the works collected here, Chekhov moved away from the realism of his earlier tales - developing a broader range of characters and subject matter, while forging the spare minimalist style that would inspire such modern short-story writers as Hemingway and Faulkner.

...a solution would be found and then a new and beautiful life would begin. And both of them clearly realized the end was far, far away and that the most complicated and difficult part was only just beginning.

看朗读者知道了这个短篇，期望太高了，反倒没有觉得那么好

I've only read The Lady with the Little Dog. When I read this one, I felt kind of like reading Zhang Ailing's novels as I did before.
