The 'birth' of a doctor through the grueling years of residency, excerpted in SELF magazine. Wearing the long white coat of an M.D. and being called 'Doctor' for the first time are heady experiences for a newly-minted doctor checking in for her first day of residency. Dr. Transue chronicles this intense three-year stage of medical training—her residency in Internal Medicine at a Seattle hospital—as she gains confidence in putting her academic knowledge to work.
