Dilbert has become everyone's favourite corporate pin-up boy. Millions of office dwellers all over the world stick Scott Adams comic strip to their cubicle walls when murdering their boss is not a viable option. Find out why common sense never prevails in the workplace, why the only reason your company ever sells any products is because of all the idiots out there and why incompetent people (with great hair) are promoted to the only place they can't harm management. "Very funny view of the white collar shop floor" - "Guardian". "Adams caricatures the lunacies of corporate life" - "Financial Times".
