"This is so boring!" Steve is earning his pocket money by working in his dad's chemist shop. He wants to be outside skateboarding and tree climbing. Finally, a few customers start to trickle in. A lady with a large nose and a big black hat asks for some wart cream, a man with a long cape and big teeth asks for some plasters and a lot of toothpaste, and a very, very hairy man buys some nail clippers and an extra strong comb. "Oh I get it, there must be a fancy dress party nearby," thinks Steve. But then a headless man on a horse comes into the shop for some extra strong throat lozenges. Steve asks the man how he does the trick. He's about to get the biggest shock of his life...
