In addition to the P-38, there are four gifts, one for each of my friends. I want to say good-bye to them properly. I want to give them each something to remember me by. To let them know I really cared about them and I'm sorry I couldn't be more than I was--that I couldn't stick around--and that what's going to happen today isn't their fault.

Today is Leonard Peacock's birthday. It is also the day he hides a gun in his backpack. Because today is the day he will kill his former best friend, and then himself, with his grandfather's P-38 pistol.

But first he must say good-bye to the four people who matter most to him: his Humphrey Bogart--obsessed next-door neighbor, Walt; his classmate Baback, a violin virtuoso; Lauren, the Christian homeschooler he has a crush on; and Herr Silverman, who teaches the high school's class on the Holocaust. Speaking to each in turn, Leonard slowly reveals his secrets as the hours tick by and the moment of truth approaches.

In this riveting book, acclaimed author Matthew Quick unflinchingly examines the impossible choices that must be made--and the light in us all that never goes out.

While reading the book, I had to constantly remind myself that this kid is just a fictional character, or else my heart would break into pieces. I never cared so much about a character that I wish I could give him massive hugs. He's so lonely, in fact he might be the loneliest character I've ever encountered.

2013/10/10 中间Leonard给Herr Silverman送礼物的一段读得我激动万分，甚至想一口气把剩下的一半读完。但是高潮一下就过去了，故事的发展有些单薄，主角虽有如Holden般的碎碎念却没有配角配戏，反而让人觉得主角太过牢骚。最后的结局也不够收敛，怎么能说完就完了呢。
