"Hearing" is a comprehensive, authoritative reference work covering both the physiological and perceptual aspects of hearing. Intended for researchers and advanced students in the field of hearing, it reviews major areas of research in addition to new discoveries, including active mechanisms in the cochlea, across-channel processes in auditory masking, and perceptual grouping processes. This title: covers both physiological and perceptual aspects of hearing; contains authoritative reviews by experts in the field; and, offers comprehensive up-to-date coverage. It is an integrated work with extensive cross-references between chapters.
