Allen, who wrote the best sellers Nothing Down and Creating Wealth , selected three unemployed people and taught them how to invest in real estate. His method: Buy property at below-market price from a flexible seller with little or no money down. His "challenge" was a partial success; each person bought property, but only one attained the financial goal set by the author in the time allotted. This book describes the group s experience. Allen writes in a conversational, easy-to-understand manner, and the setbacks and achievements of the participants are engrossing. The Challenge is a useful complement to Nothing Down. BOMC alternate; Fortune Book Club main selection. Wendy Allex, Lee Cty. Lib. System, Ft. Myers, Fla.
