More than a quarter of a million Muslims live and work in Hong Kong. Among them are descendants of families who have been in the city for generations, recent immigrants from around the world, and growing numbers of migrant workers. Islam in Hong Kong explores the lives of Muslims as ethnic and religious minorities in this unique post-colonial Chinese city. Drawing on interviews with Muslims of different origins, O' Connor builds a detailed picture of daily life through topical chapters on language, space, religious education, daily prayers, maintaining a halal diet in a Chinese environment, racism, and other subjects. Although the picture that emerges is complex and ambiguous, one striking conclusion is that Muslims in Hong Kong generally find acceptance as a community and do not consider themselves to be victimised because of their religion.

评论

通俗易懂，香港伊斯兰世界简史，赞oconnor!

簡單易懂，非常適合做入門讀物，雖然有些結論性的東西感覺有些中規中矩。另：真想 把這句話砸在某人臉上：“I have tried for the most part to let the research and respondents speak for themselves and have not been particularly vocal about my political position on many of these issues” . (195)
