A liberal essay was wrote as conservative languages. Pretty persuasive! It's a brilliant idea that change NBC & FOX news audience for one year so they might listen each others speaking for a little bit.

In this angry essay, King laid out his opinions well and, as a writer, talked about his hard decision to pull Rage, his first novel, from publication to call for people's responsibility. I like the way he regarded the public as "drunks in a barroom" and stated that the US exists in "a culture of Kardashian", which are both unspeakable truth.
