Japan and Reconciliation in Post-war Asia considers former Japanese prime minister Tomiichi Murayama's 1995 apology statement, the height of Japan's post-war apology, and examines its implications for memory, international relations, and reconciliation in Asia. Taking a comparative approach and situating discussion within broader debates about war, apology, and reconciliation, this volume bring together insider perspectives from Japan, China, Korea, and Taiwan, shedding light on how Japan's post-war apology discourse developed, what it achieved, what its limitations are, and what its future implications will be.

个人觉的吴睿人以及托马斯·伯格的文章写得很好。

Kazuhiko Togo

作为上个年代的外交官角度公正编辑的文章有条有理有逻辑，自己的首篇文章开篇就把整本书的基调定的很不错，应该是全书最高，中国那篇是由个历史学家写的，所以比较像回顾文，台湾那篇aggressive，觉得自己怀抱浪漫主义。但是all in all，是本有价值的关于中日台韩历史问题的identity反思。
