This work is a collection of personal insults, put-downs and comebacks in the wisecracking "American ghetto" stand up tradition of "insult comedy". All the jokes are aimed at the victim's mother or other relatives: "Yo' mama is so old that when she was young, rainbows were black and white!"; "Yo' mama is so fat, when her beeper goes off, people think she's reversing!"; "Yo' mama is so stupid, she sold the house to pay the mortgage!"; and, The MTV insult contest Yo Momma featuring contestants trading insults is currently a big reality TV hit. It includes nasty putdowns of famous people by famous people: Harry Truman on Richard Nixon; Martin Luther on Henry VIII; Charlie Sheen on Colin Farrell; Howard Hughes on Clark Gable; Gore Vidal on Andy Warhol; Lydon Johnson on Gerald Ford; and Barbara Stanwyck on Marilyn Monroe. It includes the wittiest and most insulting put-downs ever uttered about yo' mama, yo' sister, and al yo' other relatives. So dumb, so fat, so ugly and so old has never been so funny...
