Childrens books seek to assist children to understand themselves and their world. "Unsettling Narratives" demonstrates how settler-society texts position child readers as citizens of postcolonial nations, how they represent the colonial past to modern readers, what they propose about race relations, and how they conceptualise systems of power and government. Clare Bradford focuses on texts produced since 1980 in Canada, the United States, Australia, and New Zealand and includes picture books, novels, and films by Indigenous and non-Indigenous publishers and producers. From extensive readings, the author focuses on key works to produce a thorough analysis rather than a survey. "Unsettling Narratives" opens up an area of scholarship and discussion -- the use of postcolonial theories -- relatively new to the field of childrens literature and demonstrates that many texts recycle the colonial discourses naturalised within mainstream cultures.

尤其intro，理论梳理和立场阐明得非常清楚易懂，毕竟postcolonial theory常常把理论搞得各种晦涩
