Published to accompany the large-format photographic work Our Fragile World, this is a collection of postcards showing the beauty of the planet. Postcards are glued to cloth for easy tearing and clean edges.

Includes work from some of the world’s leading photographers, and many images featured in the United Nations Environment Program photography competition.

The world's finely-balanced ecosystems are creaking under the weight of human activity. In these 30 postcards, the camera lens is turned onto the astonishing beauty of nature and the wonderful diversity of our planet. It illustrates what we have and how much we stand to lose.
