In this collection on the Kyoto School of Philosophy, the author offers the reader Tanabe's religious philosophy, but also his philosophy of nature and ontology. It is not only on individuum, society, and humankind, but also on the logical structure of Tanabe's thinking, and aspects such as nature, beauty, matter, contemplation, practice, politics, religion, science, history, eternity, etcetera. A work which introduces the reader to Ozaki's own creative synthetic view of the main problems of Christian-Buddhist theological and philosophical encounter.
