Do you have a child in your preschool classroom who: Covers their ears when others are singing and playing? Refuses to touch clay, paint, or sand? Often falls down and skins their knees? And, climbs on top of furniture and jumps off? If so, it is possible the child may be having difficulty with sensory integration. How can you help children with this problem? "The Sensory Integration Book" helps identify children who have difficulties with sensory processing, and offers teachers simple, easy-to-use solutions to support these children's needs in the classroom.
