When Mama and Great-Grammaw weave the striking cornrow patterns of Africa into the children's hair, their gentle voices also weave a tale full of pride and heritage. "A jubilant celebration of black culture". -- Publishers Weekly "The handsome, dark drawings...express the warmth of family love and pride; but particularly effective are the illustrations which show the arts, the ritual, and the events of the African people". -- Horn Book "It's a happy, sad story full of pride and great people in our history". -- Ebony Junior
