Young readers are given a fun opportunity to explore the world through a rainbow of colors with this exciting Carolrhoda series. Each book uses colors to introduce children to the history, traditions, and daily life of people in a specific country or ethnic group. A map, index, and lovely full-color illustrations complement the text. What color is China? It's red like the Chinese flag, brown like the Yangzi River, and black like the tires of bicycles that millions of Chinese people ride every day. Get to know China in this beautifully illustrated introduction to the country that is home to more people than any other country in the world.
