This book is designed for anyone who wishes to enter medical school. You will be guided through all aspects of the application process from what undergraduate courses to take and how to prepare for the MCAT to getting letters of recommendation, writing your personal statement, and interviewing. The book also covers special categories of students including non-traditional, students of minority backgrounds, and the disabled. It even covers handling rejection, should that happen, and a view of the application process from the point of view of the admissions officer.
