Paul Beatty's hilarious and scathing debut novel is about Gunnar Kaufman, an awkward, black surfer bum who is moved by his mother from Santa Monica to urban West Los Angeles. There, he begins to undergo a startling transformation from neighborhood outcast to basketball superstar, and eventually to reluctant messiah of a "divided, downtrodden people."

为啥我要看这些美国人无病呻吟啊...

我觉得美国人好喜欢无病呻吟→_→

I find it rather slow despite its moderate length...It's probably a relevance issue, as Beatty himself once put it: I think plot is very subjective...if the book is about things that are really, really tangential to how you read, or the things that are in your world, your reaction might be, Oh, there's no plot here.
