Like all great "comics for kids," be it Charles Shultz's "Peanuts", Bill Watterson's "Calvin and Hobbes", or Carl Bark's "Scrooge McDuck", these stories by John Stanley and

Irving Tripp are legendary for their ability to delight both children and adults alike with their wit, insight, and outright hilarity. Witness two of the medium's masters at the very pinnacle of their talent and skill in these gut-busting stories featuring the smart and sassy, generous and gregarious, absolutely one-of-a-kind eight-year-old Lulu Moppet and her loveable cast of neighborhood troublemakers! Come share in the fun as Lulu, Tubby, Alvin, and all of the rest of the gang take a whirlwind tour through the adventures of daily life in these stories as fresh and original as the day they flew off spinner-racks across America!
