Can you think of a more amazing place than a garden in the springtime? It comes to life not only with plants but also with a host of other visitors who will call it home until the next frost comes. As grandpa tells his granddaughter in I Saw It in the Garden, there are wondrous things to see if only you look. My grandpa told me once all he'd come to know of what a person needs to do to help a garden grow. ... ?Then keep your eyes wide open. You might just be in awe.? I did just what my grandpa said and this is what I saw ... Told with lively verse and bright, cheerful illustrations, share the magic of a summer full of garden fun.
