It's Iditarod Day and 56 dog teams will race across 1,151 miles of rugged Alaskan terrain to Nome. Akiak knows these miles well. As lead dog, she has raced the Iditarod seven times before, but has never won. This is her last chance. When the snow freezes in her paw on the fourth day, Mick, her musher, must leave her behind. The rules say that Akiak is out for good. But Akiak doesn't know about rules. She is a lead dog; she must rejoin her team. And nothing -- not blizzards, breaking ice, or people out to catch her -- will stop Akiak from catching up to her team. The question is, will she? And can the team still win? Blake's majestic snowscapes lead readers through this unforgettable tale of a dog with a hero's heart, a dog who will keep them cheering right to the very end.
