Dora, married and settled into Millstream Orchard Farm in Minnesota, writes in her diary faithfully. A year after they had planned, Dora and her husband Matthew finally go to Belize to work in an orphanage run by Dora's aunt and uncle. Dora and Matthew wish for a child of their own. Even after three years of marriage, there is still no baby. They buy a farm in a different Amish settlement in Belize, adopt children (Dora wants a dozen), and revel in the wonderful people and world God has given them.
