Bill Martin Jr. and John Archambault evoke the beauty and the mystery, and the sounds and the silences-- of rain. "Listen to the rain, ""the whisper of the rain, ""the slow soft sprinkle, ""the drip-drop tinkle, ""the first wet whisper of the rain." Their marvelous ear for the melodies and rhythm of language, combined with James Endicott's spare, almost abstract paintings, have created a lyrical book with a haunting power-- perfect for reading aloud on a rainy day. An NCTE Notable Trade Book for the Language Arts.
