David Hansen, design principal with Perkins+Will, is a skilled authority in master planning and design, having spearheaded more than twenty-three million square feet of global market facilities in just the past ten years alone. With more than thirty years of experience in worldwide commercial, corporate, civic and educational projects, he has been responsible for the design, planning and execution of award-winning projects for high-profile clients. This book is a collection of Hansen's most memorable corporate campus projects. Five built projects are presented in depth, with plans, photographs, design sketches and text that outlines the intricate planning and building process. Further 'on the boards' projects are presented, giving a taste of great things to come from David Hansen. A foreword by Chris Sullivan of Architecture magazine, and an essay by Hansen himself allow us a glimpse into the unique approach of a talented architect.
