This series is for the Readasaurus rex Students will travel back in time to when Tyrannosaurus rex was king of the land and Velociraptor was leaping with life. High-quality photographs show reconstructed skeletal remains and models of how the dinosaurs looked and lived in their natural environments around the world. Interesting size diagrams compare each dinosaur to the height of an average human, giving students a perspective of what it would be like to meet these creatures face to face This series explores and supports the standard "The Living Environment: Evolution of Life," as required by Benchmarks for Science Literacy: Project 2061.
