On TV and on the big screen, these stories have given us some of our favorite screen sleuths, thrilling us as they solve near-perfect crimes with ingenuity and skill. Spine-tingling tales include: - Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's The Beryl Coronet: a tale that brings to life a Victorian England of horse-drawn cabs, fogs, and the famous lodgings at 221B Baker Street, where Sherlock Holmes earned his reputation as the greatest fictional detective of all time- Agatha Christie's Sanctuary: featuring Miss Marple, one of the most famous female detectives in fiction--an unlikely eccentric, bustling with energy.- Margery Allingham's The Case of the Widow: follow super-sleuth Albert Campion in this spine-chilling manhunt in London's sinister underworld
