Fevered notes scribbled on napkins after first dates. Titillating text messages. It's-not-you-it's-me relationship-enders. In Other People's Love Letters, Bill Shapiro has searched America's attics, closets, and cigar boxes and found actual letters—unflinchingly honest missives full of lust, provocation, guilt, and vulnerability—written only for a lover's eyes. Modern love, of course, is not all bliss, and in these pages you' ll find the full range of a relationship, with its whispered promises as well as its heartache. But what at first appears to be a deliciously voyeuristic peek into other people' s most passionate moments, will ultimately reawaken your own desires and tenderness...because when you read these letters, you' ll find the heart you' re looking into is actually your own.

- "i think UR great. wanna have wine & Tequila again sometime?"
- "I can't believe you're real, and I think about you constantly in some way or the other all day. I haven't given the finger to anyone driving since I met you."
- "With you I learned how to fight cleaner, how to talk things out better, and how to make a strong loving family out of nothing. These are priceless gifts that I will carry with me the rest of my life. One more thing you did for me: you left, and I had to get through it."
- "P.S. I look forward to your letters too much to call. Also, where do you stand on chains?"

书评

在UO第一次翻阅. 然后想起了这辈子恋爱谈了几场,情书没收一封.

买下这本书当做自己的生日礼物.

一页页翻阅,看着别人的情书,其实并非只是别人的故事.

在每封情书里勾勒作者的性别,长相,年龄,性格.

在字里行间试图还原他们写下每封情书的心境. 有时很温暖,有时会难过. 150封我本...
