Government conspiracies and underworld figures were the last things Kat Fitzgerald thought she would find in a tropical paradise. That was the life she left behind when she moved her young family to Belize. Little did she know her dream job of flying medical supplies for the poor would be warped by a CIA plot.

Helplessly entwined in the push for global domination, Kat must become a chameleon to save her family. From the Embassy in El Salvador to the jungles of Nicaragua, Kat fights against the odds and finds the chance to break free. Will they escape to freedom, or will her family become an invisible statistic of an invisible war? Time is running out.

Kathleen Keating, the international best selling author of The Final Warning and The Gates of Hell, takes us back to the book that started it all. Showing she is a master hand at fiction as well as non-fiction, Keating takes you on a non-stop thrill ride. You won't want it to end.
