Love's drama, dreams, and schemes. Stacie & Cole have been in love since the beginning of high school. Their heads should be up in the clouds, but lately it's all been about sins and secrets that threaten to tear their love apart. Stacie's dad is acting way more overprotective than usual. And what's up with her best friend being so shady lately? Even Cole has been testing her. Stacie loves him more than anything, but she's not sure she's ready to take their relationship to that level just yet. Cole is ready to take their relationship further. Feeling abandoned by his dad--and harassed for being a virgin by his trash-talking boys--he's trying to learn intimacy any way he can. Stacie & Cole have always been close--but with lust and lies at every turn, they discover if their love really has no limit.
