Illustrator's Note:

When I was asked to illustrate Cinderella, I thought it would be interesting to set the story in the 1930s. I have always had an interest in that period and wanted to incorporate Art Deco designs alongside those of earlier periods. My background in fashion design made it especially fun to research the wardrobe for Cinderella and her wicked stepfamily. In creating these characters, I was influenced by the movie stars, magazine covers, and art of the 1920s and '30s. The paintings that decorate the walls are my humble interpretations of those by Augustus John and Tamara de Lempicka, and the wallpaper, furniture, and pottery are all based on real Art Deco designs.
