In 1988, award-winning poet Nikki Grimes spent three weeks along the east coast of China. At the same time, artist and China native Ed Young was there writing and sketching his impressions in a personal journal. Both observed signs of the old China alongside the new, and both set what they saw on paper. Through Grimes's penetrating verse and Young's deft drawings, Tai Chi Morning blends two voices that speak not only about China but also about the many ways of experiencing the world.

我竟然读了一本这么小众的书,在离开学校的倒数第四天,不知道是哪个学生拉下的,花了不到半个小时就看完了,一开始以为写的像上个世纪,后来发现真的是上个世纪,该不会我的学生看了,觉得我们还这么传统吧哈哈哈
