Although people may have the best intentions in building a strong relationship with their spouse, it is quite easy to fall into the traps that will do more to emasculate your relationship rather than build it. It is easy for most people to criticize their spouse for not being perfect while many ignore their own imperfections. Did you know that 43% of all married couples disagree over money issues, making it the primary reason for why couples fight? Money is a very big part of a marriage. As you know, lasting marriages do not happen by accident. In my book, "How to Fix Your Marriage" you'll find marriage advice, tips and help for establishing a healthy and happy marriage-that you always knew you could have. Whether you are in an unhappy marriage, want more romance in your marriage, trying to deal with the infidelity of your spouse, would like to improve your marriage communication skills, or contemplating marriage-"How to Fix Your Marriage" will provide you with the tools and information to improve your marriage.
