What would you do if you overheard a phone call in which two sinister strangers arranged a rendezvous--in your apartment? What would you do if one of them was found dead the next morning in your garden, completely nude, and the police could prove he had been drowned in the bathtub of your Greenwich Village brownstone apartment? What would you do if every person in your apartment building was a logical suspect--and you were the next logical victim. The chances are you wouldn't do what Hailia and Jeff Troy did--and that is solve the case inside of a couple of days after a series of hilarious and terrifying adventures.
