The gripping story of a boy's survival during a time of war Best-selling and award-winning picture-book writer Arthur Dorros has written his first novel, a thrilling "My Side of the Mountain" type survival story. Separated from his parents by the Balkan war, 13-year-old Ehmet must use all his skills to survive a four-hundred-mile journey across wilderness and war-torn landscape to find a place he's only heard rumors of, a village of children living cooperatively and peacefully away from the violence that is tearing their country apart. He makes shelters, tracks animals, fishes with a thorn, whittles a toothbrush, and collects wild mushrooms when there's no other food. "Under the Sun is an inspiring journey by a master storyteller, created through extensive research and based on actual places.
