Being the final day of deer season, Blanco County game warden John Marlin shouldn't have any more on his mind than working his way through a cold six-pack. That's his plan until a screaming, half-naked immigrant named Jorge comes tearing out of the woods with one word on his trembling lips...Chupacabra™ The mythical critter shouldn't be too hard to find, with this its vampire fangs, a lions head, and the face of the devil...Marlin's hoping that Jorge's just gone simple. But if that's the case, then why the blood-drained corpse in the woods with puncture wounds on his neck? When national media descends locust-style, everyone decides to take advantage of the publicity, including two Chinese dwarves exploring a career in adult film, and enterprising car thief, a con man with n illegal-game scam, and a pair of babbas with a loopy plan to capture the legendary beast. It's all Marlin can do to keep from going flat crazy himself - before another body turns up.
