This book links a fish dinner enjoyed by a thankful family with the entire marine food web. Beginning with tiny plankton, "floating free," followed by a "shrimp as small as a snail (lots of legs and a squiggly tail)," each verse introduces a new link and then connects it to everything else. It reminds us to appreciate the intricate chain of life in the sea that feeds us. Robert Baldwin is a storyteller and musician, many of his songs and stories are those of the sea.
