In the introduction, the author describes her discovery of beads as a child and her lifelong fascination with them. Next are colour photographs of 10 of the 71 pieces, which include necklaces, bracelets, rings, earrings, brooches, hair ornaments, cell phone straps and eyeglass chains. The next 66 pages are devoted to brief instructions for the jewellery, supplemented by small colour photographs and detailed colour drawings. On the last few pages are descriptions of the beads used to make the jewellery, beading supplies, and some lessons covering basic bead-stringing, weaving and finishing techniques.
