As one of the king's favourites, Lady Tanon Risande had never imagined that she'd be traded to a savage Welsh prince as a gesture of Norman goodwill. Gareth ap Owain may call himself a prince but his untamed sensuality only confirmed he was no gentleman. As her wedding night approached Tanon was torn between fear and her budding desire...Gareth was determined to prove to his new lady wife that he saved his savagery for the battlefield, not the bedchamber. There were other far more pleasurable ways to get Tanon willingly into his bed. Patience would win her heart and win peace for his people. But not all of his countrymen welcomed his Norman bride. There weren't those who would use her for their own blood-thirsty ends. Gareth had sworn to keep her safe but would doing so incite another bloody battle - with his own kind?
