TV newscaster Kari Wynne blamed her shattered life on one man--District Attorney Hunter McKee. He hadn't caused her husband's death, but McKee "had" smeared his reputation. Her much older husband was her hero. McKee had branded him a thief in the media--then dared to send her roses to apologize for hurting her. Soon her anger against McKee was affecting her reporting and jeopardizing her job. Worse her desire that exploded every time they met was disturbing her peace of mind. Now as scandal swirled around her, Kari began a desperate search for the truth about her dead husband
