"Chez Jacques" is a visual autobiography of one of America's most beloved cooking teachers, cookbook authors, and television personalities. Here, Jacques Pépin presents 100 of his favorite recipes culled from a lifetime of cooking professionally. The book highlights the food rituals that have shaped Pépin's life, from picking the first dandelion greens for a spring salad to mushrooming in the woods in summer. This storytelling format allows Pépin to present the recipes in a narrative way. The recipes follow the organisation of the simple meals Pépin enjoys at home. From the special truffle and pistachio sausage to a variation on the elegant lobster soufflé he first made while working at the Plaza Athénée in Paris as a young man. Scattered throughout are fascinating essays in which Pépin shares his thoughts on various aspects of food history and cooking. With more than 200 stunning photographs, the book is a sentimental journey, a treasury of wonderful recipes and a gorgeous gift for food lovers.
