I like the way you open.I can turn your pages by myself.I like the way you close.I can put you on my shelf. Books can be for silly times or quiet, for reading alone or sharing... but always to enjoy. A small child discovers their magic for the very first time in this exuberant ode to book appreciation by award-winning poet Kristine O'Connell George. Brightly colored illustrations are a perfect match for the spare, rhyming text, and thick pages with rounded corners make this a special first "real" book for baby.
