Adorning our necks and wrists with beads has always been popular, but creating bold and original finger jewelry is now attracting beaders by the droves! Because of their size, beaded rings are simple and quick to make, and they are so instantly gratifying that you could easily create an entire series without spending too much time or money. Having searched the country to find the hottest fashions, editor Jean Campbell delivers a gorgeous variety of stylish rings that include flashy rhinestone coils and subtly patterned tubes, flowers for the hand, crystal domes that catch the light, a leopard skin ring, a sea urchin ring, and a ring for your chakra. There are knitted rings, strung rings, and wireworked rings; some for special occasions and others for everyday wear. Beadwork Creates Beaded Rings brings more of what you expect from this wildly popular, how-to series: 30 spectacular beading projects created by prominent designers, beautiful photography, and clear step-by-step instructions. So, if large beading projects are getting you down, jump on the fashion train and try your hand at beaded rings.
