Bayard Rustin was born in Pennsylvania in the early part of the twentieth century, the grandson of a former slave. A talented singer and musician and a good student, Rustin moved to New York City, where he attended college, became enmeshed in the exciting Harlem Renaissance, and began working as an activist and organizer for the burgeoning Civil Rights Movement. Today, Rustin is remembered as a tireless force, a man who lived his life working for the cause he so fervently believed in, and who struggled to bear two crosses--being black and being homosexual--at a time when one was more than enough. No Easy Answers: Bayard Rustin and the Civil Rights Movement explores the life and remarkable times of this brave man.
