Leaders around the world recognize that daily reflection is absolutely necessary for defining values, establishing direction and pursuing vision. Luce and McDermott, two of the world's leading international consultants in leadership development, help leaders to take ten minutes a day to focus on the principles they live by and help those around them develop and prosper. In "Time Out for Leaders," you find for each weekday of the year a provocative quotation, insight on leadership, and an affirmation for daily direction. This new, revised edition is designed so even the busiest executive can take a few moments for fruitful reflection and renewal each day. This classy hardcover, jacketed edition with a ribbon marker makes it a great gift.
