Winner of the Academy Award in 2001 for his performance in "Gladiator" and the Golden Globe in 2002 for his starring role in "A Beautiful Mind", Russell Crowe is much in demand as a film actor. The New-Zealand born, Australian-bred Crowe has attracted controversy with his high profile love affairs, his open hostility towards the American news media and his all-round eccentricity. This biography traces his career from rock'n'roller - he still sings and plays with his band, Thirty Odd Foot of Grunts - to Australian stage, film and TV actor to Hollywood star in movies such as "L.A. Confidential" and "The Insider".
